FRESH NOTES ABOUT THE FASHIONS

[From the N. Y. Evening Post.]

[illegible] silks command a good price and find a ready market.

Worth is still using May velvet for his summer mantles.

Ladies who can afford it are wearing white satin morning robes.

The sagging Louis XIV puff are seen on imported grenadine toilets.

Awning striped skirts are worn under tunics of blue and olive green flannel.

White costumes are worn upon the street and in all public places in the country.

The latest poke bonnets show signs of rivaling the proportions of the towering coops of 1780.

New French costumes show a combination of pale mauve silk and sage green satin Merveilleux brocaded with gold.

A new Jersey is imported made of chenille network with a finer rubber in the ribbing, causing it to fit the figure as closely as the silk webbing used to last winter.

Immense Watteau fans made of cretonne are now exhibited in the shop windows and are made to match in colors and design the bright cretonnes, foulards, Pompadour cambrics and other gay summer dress fabrics.

A lady artist in New York is painting some exquisitely beautiful pinafores, tabliers and panels of white tinted and black satin with shoulder capes and satin round hats to match for the especial use of some of New York's society ladies, who are to give garden parties at Newport.

Pretty hats for the country are made in the Niniche shape—slanting down in front over the face. They are fashionably made of the coarse porcupine straw in cardinal or gold and are trimmed with an enormous Alsacian bow of surah placed on the crown toward the front of the hat. The brim is lined with a shirred trimming to match.

A stylish hat in the modified Marie Stuart shape is made of maroon Milan straw, a fine English braid, lined with shirred satin of a darker color and bordered with a tiny gold passementerie. The outside is trimmed with a satin scarf of the deep maroon color shot with gold, and a wreath of gold hearted poppies shading from a deep crimson to a pale flesh tint.

The costliness and variety of ladies hose is daily becoming more marked. The very last thing in this direction is to wear a stocking of one color on one foot and a contrasting one on the other—for instance a black silk stocking on the right foot and a cardinal one on the left, or one of pale blue and another of gold color. This fashion seems to be more suggestive of a gaudy clown at a circus performance than anything else.

With light bodice this season tulle ruches or frill plaits are more fashionable than ordinary ruffles. If slightly open the bodice is accompanied by a deep Stuart collar edged with lace and cuffs to match put on over the sleeve. If cut Pompadour the open square is filled up with a finely shirred chemisette of French mull finished with a full ruche. A great deal of lace is worn about the throat and wrists and the corsage bouquet is still the favorite adjunct of all summer toilets, however simple.

Bathing caps are made this summer with some regard to good looks and for the ugly oil silk hoods formerly used are substituted soft, round crowned hats made of black or cream colored silk which has been boiled in oil making it waterproof. The very broad brims are shirred and the hats are quite sensible and comfortable looking but some ladies in the endeavor to make them still more attractive in shape tilt them up in the back thus inconsistently inviting sunstroke while in bathing for health.

A charming dress for a little girl is made of turquoise blue and white surah. The front is made with a finely shirred tablier and is of the white surah. Around the bottom of the skirt are three plaitings of the same. The wee tunic is made of the blue surah, the tiny puffed paniers opening wide on the shirred tablier. The back is laid on broad box plaits. A sash is commenced at the hip pocket and knotted behind. A wide rounded collar is added and cream colored twist point lace follows all the contours and forms the pocket and cuffs.

The immensely long Directoire coat tail basques are much in vogue, and have reached the domain of evening dress in which they have a striking effect. A dress made in this style was recently worn. The corsage was of dark olive green satin, cut Pompadour, the sleeves being half long. At the back the corsage was lengthened in long broad coat-tails, which reached nearly to the foot of the train. The over skirt was of green and gold brocaded surah, crossed with a wide scarf of the plain olive green satin, lined with gold-colored satin, as were also the long coat tails of the corsage, which gave the effect in the back of ends to the sash drapery which crossed the tablier in front, and was carried to the sides of the tournure.

A handsome evening toilet shows a combination of pale-colored satin, brocaded with light blue corn flowers, and a rich stuff of plain old gold satin. The front of the skirt is bordered with quilles of satin embroidered with gold beads and very fine pearls. The brocaded train opens in the centre over a second train of the plain satin also embroidered with beads. The "Raphael" corsage of the brocade has elbow sleeves of the plain satin puffed high on the shoulders, the puffs being covered with the beaded embroidery. A high Medici collar is likewise adorned, and the very long tan colored gloves are laced up over the elbow with gold colored silk cord. Gold colored satin slippers embroidered with beads are worn over silk stockings of a pale shade of blue.

An elegant street costume for second mourning is formed of black canvas grenadine, made up over black taffeta. The skirt is surrounded with ten knife plaited ruffles edged with narrow Spanish lace. A tournure of deep sagging puffs falls over the back. Scarfs trimmed with lace edged plaitings are caught up under the tournure and draped at the head of the plaitings, falling over the skirt in wide rounded ends. The plain basque corsage is trimmed with a puffed drapery around the neck and terminates in a narrow shirred plaston. The sleeves are trimmed to correspond and fit the arm very closely, ending in plaited frills of Spanish lace. A Directoire bonnet of black Dunstable straw is added, lined and trimmed with black gros grain silk, and around the crown is a wreath of crepe leaves and a cluster of lustreless mulberries.

The preparation of varied and elegant toilets for the watering places is still employing the busy brains and fingers of the ingenious and tireless designers in our city, their show rooms now displaying a magnificent kaleidoscopic picture of superb toilets worthy of a Queen, from the dainty morning dresses, tea gowns and the ubiquitous coaching, lawn tennis and archery costumes to the more costly and elaborate dinner, reception and evening toilets, which are constantly increasing in artistic beauty. People who regard with pleasure the wondrous dominion of Dame Fashion cannot but look with pride and satisfaction upon the marvels of style and grace as shown in the creations of our own American modistes. From Paris come their inspiration it is true. It would be useless for any nation the world over to attempt to wrest from the French the palm for consummate skill in dress. Their productions are perfect enough and soul inspiring enough to cause all generous minded people to forgive the irreverence of the enthusiastic French woman who upon beholding some marvellously beautiful toilets just completed threw up her hands in rapture exclaiming "Heavenly perfect! Oh I think the Lord Himself must have made them!" American handiwork can scarcely extort such extravagant praise as this, yet the wonderful creations exhibited by our chief designers afford daily proof of the rapid progress they are making toward perfection of art in dress. At a leading uptown house was recently prepared a magnificent wedding trousseau for a lady in California which when completed and delivered was thought to be imported by some of her lady friends who are accustomed to sending orders to Paris for their dresses, and who expressed much astonishment when the lady—who glories in the achievements of her own country—gladly informed them to the contrary. "What's in a name?" is Shakespeare's reflective and moralizing query. Strong proof is given that there is everything in a name when it happens to be that of Worth, [illegible] or Hentenaar stamped upon the belt of a beautiful dress. The great superiority of the toilet is at once recognized and handsome as the costume may be in itself that magic brand sheds a crowning glory over the whole, enveloping it in a powerful radiance which no American lesser light can ever hope to rival, for even should the time arrive in the course of human events when two dresses placed side by side, one French, one American, in make were perfect counterparts one of the other in style, fit, draping and material, yet the one lacking the prestige of being imported would lack all that makes it an enchantment and a charm in the eyes of the majority of even our most truly loyal people who are longest and loudest in their applause of home talent and industry, and who sing "America" and "Hail Columbia" with voices at concert pitch on every possible occasion.

STATE NEWS.

Aroostook

Two new starch factories are building in Presque Isle, one near the line of Westfield by George W. Collins and the other two miles south of the village, by Johnson & [illegible]. When these are completed, there will be six starch mills in and near Presque Isle.

Cumberland

The Press says that Parsons, Bangs & Co. of Portland on Saturday filed their petition in insolvency. They offer a compromise of thirty per cent to their creditors. The first meeting of the creditors will be September 1st, when the proposition will be considered. At the adjourned meeting of the creditors of Jos. H. Sawyer of Portland Saturday, it was shown that Mr. Sawyer's liabilities were between $23 000 and $27 000; assets nominally $[illegible]. It was unanimously voted to accept an offer of compromise made of 12½ per centum to be paid in ten days, the committee so recommending. If accepted by the creditors who did not attend Mr. Sawyer will continue business; otherwise his affairs will be settled in insolvency.

Kennebec

The Journal says that J. J. Miller & Co. of Augusta, proprietors of certain patent medicines, have been offered $10,000 for a half interest.

Oxford

A correspondent writes to the Lewiston Journal as follows: We have in Hebron an aged man, Mr. Zebulon Bryant, who is a wonder for smartness. He was 89 years old last May, and when I called to see him a short time ago I found him in the field hoeing corn. His faculties, hearing and eyesight, are retained remarkably well. He is as active as many at 70 or 75 years of age, walking to the neighbors and doing considerable light work.

Sagadahoc

The store and entire stock of goods of Eben Lancaster of East Bowdoinham were burned Sunday A. M. The fire had got beyond control when discovered so nothing could be saved. It was doubtless the work of an incendiary. Insurance will cover the loss.

Washington

The Calais Times (Greenback) says: The tax collector was kept busily engaged at the city rooms the first days of the week, in receiving the taxes of those who wished to pay before the 31st and save the discount of five per cent. Money came in with a rush. The trouble of collecting taxes was never less than this year, which indicates the return of something like former prosperity to the community.

York

The Sanford News says an Alfred man recently married his divorced wife. He had lived with her for twenty years, then procured a divorce, married again, was again divorced and now marries the first wife.

THE NEWPORT BALL IN 1781.

[The Easy Chair of Harper's for August.]

Tradition cherishes the name of Washington's partner at the Newport ball. He solicited the honor of the hand of the beautiful Miss Champlin with a high bred respectful courtesy which the incomparable waltzer of to-day might well emulate, and he asked his partner to name the dance. The lovely Champlin selected "A Successful Campaign"—a dance in high favor—and as the hero led out his partner upon the floor, the French officers, with graceful gallantry, took the instruments from the musicians, and played while Washington and the Champlin bowed and stepped and courtesied in the minuet. She had beautiful eyes, said the Prince de Broglie, a sweet mouth, a perfectly shaped face, a fine figure, pretty foot, and an air altogether attractive. She was dressed and coifed with taste, "that is to say," adds the true Parisian, "à la Française," and she spoke the prince's language.

A quarter of a century ago the grandson of that famous beauty was living in her father's house, where Washington took tea on the evening of the ball. It had been the home of five successive generations, and on one of the windows—memorial windows were they all—was still legible, scratched with a diamond, the name of Betsey Halliburton. The name of another of the belles whom the Frenchman saw is familiar from that of the famous library founded by Abraham Redwood. His daughter was "exceedingly beautiful," and tradition declares, without fear of denial, that sailors, stepping ashore from long sea voyages, lifted their hats as she passed, and gazed as if they had seen an angel. Boys of a generation before that which the Easy Chair recalls, remembered a grave old lady mixing wine and eggs and sugar in a pan, then stepping into the paddock where the cow was grazing, and returning with a foaming syllabub. It was the beautiful Redwood, the friend of the Champlin and of the daughters of William Ellery, who signed the Declaration of Independence, one of whom was the mother of Dr. Channing and the grandmother of the wife of Washington Allston. There were other beauties whose names survive.

The Misses Hunter were "rivals in beauty and reputation" of the adorable Champlin, the elder of whom "dresses as well but not quite so freshly, perhaps," while the younger, if not of so lofty an air, is "a rose in person."

But the queen of the fairies was a Quaker Titania. All the French memoirs glow and palpitate with the charms of Polly Lawton. "The goddess of grace and beauty," exclaims De Broglie. "I confess that this seductive Lawton appeared to me to be the chef d'œuvre of nature." "A nymph rather than a woman," says De Segur, "so much beauty, so much simplicity, so much elegance and so much modesty were perhaps never combined in the same person." The divine Quakeress reproached him for making war and for obeying the king rather than God. "What could I reply to that angel?" sighs the captive, doubtless recalling Mme. la Comtesse de Segur, "for in truth I was tempted to believe that she was a celestial being."

REPUBLICAN UNITY

[From the N. Y. Tribune.]

od music, for any save Democratic s comes from every part of this State. e election of Senators is hailed with the most satisfaction, and that by many men o have lately been at swords' points. arp as the struggle has been, it has un- tionably welded the Republican party o gether as nothing else could have done or this there are many causes. But the ef is that the Republican and Indepen t voters are exceedingly gratified to the party at last in full and united ac- n with a National Administration which mmands the confidence and the sympa of the whole people. The feeling ld have been the same in kind, though strong, had the contest at Albany been ttled before the attempted assassination en then, the Administration had already ned a great hold upon public confidence the sagacity and singular success of its ne al pol cy, by the courage and skill ts campaign against the Star Route ibers, by its vigorous and patriotic pol- in foreign affairs, and by the manifest erity and earnestness of the President's rt to do justice to all the elements that helped to achieve a victory for Repub- n principl Antagonism to him, even would have aroused grave public rust of the party in any State In th, it may now be said in all kindness to e recent supporters of the ex Primate at the Republicans of this State have er been nearer irremediable defeat n they were when it seemed likely t his leadership and influence would ce them in an attitude of hostility to Administration the attempted assassination vastly ns fied public feeling toward the Presi- t It roused a warm and loving sym- hy so strong that no power in this untry could withstand it Public at- tion was also drawn most sharply to fingnificent career of the Administra- n thus far, to its wisdom, fidelity and s, to the close and hearty unity of members, to their sincere devotion to principles of Republicanism and the interests of the country The course he Cabinet toward Vice-President Ar- r and his own manly and honorable e toward the President's associates, e observed. In a week of intense anx- the whole country learned more, not of the Administration, but of the le Republican party, than it had known years The result has been to engthen incalculably both the Adminis- on and the party. Men who had cared e for politics and nothing for the Re blican party began to feel intensely out the contest at Albany, and to pray st earnestly that it might so end as to ng greater support to the Adminis- tion Now that it has so ended, uts of joy are raised, not only by Re- blicans of all shades, but by thousands o had no sympathy with that party a nth ago It is perfectly safe to say that Republican party can now poll more s in New York, by many thousands, n it has ever yet polled since its organi- on. United as it is now, headed by an inistration so strong in public confi e and sympathy, and fired by enthu- a as it realizes that a great and most per reform within its organization has n carried through without rupture, so the party management will henceforth brought nearer to the interests and the st influence of every voter, the Repub- n party in New York feels that it is ought to be irresistible

THE END IS PEACE

[From the Troy Times (Rep

all who have watched the course of events are aware, the fight has frequently t on an aspect of great bitterness be- een the adherents of Mr. Conkling and e who opposed him Many things e said that ought to have been left un- l, and things were done which were rudent and uncalled for. But the end ce ; the warring factions fraternized n every appearance of enthusiasm the oment a conclusion was reached as to the ing of a candidate to succeed Mr nkling, and we believe it will be found the Republican party of New York been strengthened by the friction it has lergone. Whether Mr. Conkling enter s a purpose of continuing his demand a vindication in some new form we are ble to say, but if he should take that rse the effort must be fruitless His er is broken, so far as the carrying out any sinister purpose is concerned. The ly hope of rehabilitation as a party lead- that remains to him lies in the direction lence for the present. It will be diffi- for him, at best, to regain the com- nding eminence from which he has so lishly precipitated himself. The Re- blican party in the State of New York hereafter be governed by the prefer- es of a majority of its members and not the wishes of a single individual, and in way retain the confidence of patriotic ens, whatever may be their personal mate of the merits and qualifications of rt a lar men. The day of serious fac- nal feuds has passed forever, as we hope d believe. Republicans can and will t together for the furtherance of a com- n cause rather than the glorification of ersonal idol.

R. BARNES SERIOUS VIEWS

will be remembered that Surgeon- eral J. K. Barnes, has from the first en the least hopeful of the President's at- nding physicians, and rather inclined to e the darkest side, as when on the eve- g of the Fourth of July he telegraphed at the President would not live till mid- ght The Washington special of the N Times after giving the encouraging was expressed by Drs. Hamilton, Bliss, eyburn and Boynton on Sunday evening, ves the less hopeful expressions of Dr. nes, as follows - urgeon-General Barnes this evening, est unexpectedly, took a very different w of the situation from that expressed his associates. He said that any pre- ictions at this time as to the probability the President's recovery were prema- ure and ill judged. "The American peo- le," he continued, "have never known w seriously the President has been rt. They are an impressionable people, ated to-day and depressed to-morrow, without adequate cause. They have ap- rently never fully realized the true mean- ng of the bulletins which have been issued daily. The President's little relapse of yesterday caused general despondency, and the seemingly more favorable news to-day has made them correspondingly elated. Neither was entirely justified. The President is very weak, though he has not lost nearly so much flesh as might have been expected. It will be 48 hours before any judgment that will be worth anything can be predicated as to the result of the morning's operation. It is possible that other pus sacs may be in process of formation along the track of the wound and until the time passes in which these ought to manifest themselves it is not right to assert that the danger from that source is over. My experience has been that the critical period in shot-gun wounds is not passed until 30 days after the date of the injury. If a patient gets through that period safely it may then be stated with some degree of assurance that his recovery is probable." The Surgeon General's attention was called to Dr. Hamilton's statement that the President's condition is highly encouraging. He answered that the President is certainly better now than he was yesterday, but he thought Dr. Hamilton's judgment had been biased by the fact that he came here prepared by the telegrams that had been published in New York before his departure to find the President very low, and having been undeceived, he naturally took a more rosy view than he otherwise would

FROM JERSEY CITY TO WASHINGTON IN FIVE HOURS

NEW YORK, July 23 Dr. Frank H Hamilton of this city, one of the two consulting physicians received the dispatch summoning him to Washington, at his house, 13 West Thirty-second street, at 1 30 P. M. It took him only ten minutes to prepare for the journey He left the house at 1 40, with the remark that he did not know when the next train would start, but that he would get a carriage and go to the ferry so that he would be ready to take it The dispatch, which was brief, he took with him. He hastened in a carriage to the Desbrosses street ferry, where he learned that the first train for Washington was over the Pennsylvania Railroad at 3 o'clock. It would arrive in Washington at 10 20 o'clock P M Some time was spent in inquiries as to the departure of trains on other roads Then he crossed the ferry and entered the Jersey City passenger waiting room, where he was recognized While he was making inquiries at the palace car window, Superintendent Jackson, who was in his office in another part of the depot, was sent for A very brief time sufficed to make him aware of the situation He hurried away from Dr Hamilton and seven minutes later the latter was rushing out of the depot on a special train It was 2 47 o'clock P. M when the depot master and the train dispatchers received notice to be spry. Unfortunately none of the seven new monster engines were at hand, but engine No. 915, one of the best of the ordinary engines with a five-foot driving wheel, was hitched to a new Eastlake coach, and at 2 54 it was run out of the depot. The special train would have had no preference on the road except for telegraphic orders There would have been ordinarily on the south bound track between the time the dispatchers received notice that the special was to start and the time of the expected arrival in Philadelphia, seventeen freight trains and two passenger trains. The freight trains were all got out of the way, one after another, on side tracks, in time to allow the special to roar past them without slacking speed, but the two passenger trains delayed the doctor fifteen minutes Nevertheless he arrived at Philadelphia at 4 15 P M The actual running time to Philadelphia from Jersey City was one hour and thirty six minutes At Philadelphia a stop of only three minutes was made to change engines During that three minutes Dr Agnew, the other consulting physician, who had been made acquainted by telegraph of Dr Hamilton's movements, and who had not been able to get an earlier train to Washington got into the coach. The two arrived in Washington at 7 50 P. M. A carriage was awaiting them Five minutes afterward they were at the White House

THE OPERATION BY DR AGNEW

AS DESCRIBED BY HIMSELF.

[N Y Herald interview in Washington Sunday Evening.]

"What was the nature of the operation performed to day?"

Dr Agnew—"It was an ordinary knife incision three inches in a direct perpendicular line below the mouth of the wound It was about two and one half inches from the surface of the skin, and there the abscess was struck which has caused all this trouble."

"How did the abscess come to form at this point?"

"Well, you know that the ball did not hit the rib directly opposite the point where it entered the body, but it went down obliquely. The rib was shattered below the course of the wound, and this caused an abscess to form around it."

"Did this cavity form a part of the course of the wound?"

Not at all It was entirely separate from it. But the pus of the wound worked its way down and formed in this cavity, and that accounts for the falling off in the quantity of the pus discharged from the wound"

"But if there is no connection between this cavity and the wound how did the pus get into it?"

"The fact is, the pus did get into this cavity We dealt only with the fact We ascertained the location of the cavity by external pressure upon the body with our hands, and thus were able to locate the point of incision"

"What are the President's prospects, Doctor?"

"Well, if another abscess forms the same operation will be repeated, if the same condition that he has just been relieved from makes its appearance."

"But what is the prospect of the formation of another cavity?"

"I can't say, but I can say, however, that there was more chance for an abscess to form where it did than anywhere else But another abscess may form at any place along the wound"

"What was the character of the pus that was discharged?"

There was quite a copious discharge and it was healthy looking. It gave to the eye no unfavorable indications, but of course it will be examined under a microscope."

"Are there any indications of blood poisoning?"

"None at all. The discharge of pus averts that danger."

"Was the condition of the President as critical as has been stated?"

"The President was in a very dangerous condition," replied the Doctor gravely.

As some of our readers may fall into the error of last evening's paper in ascribing to Dr. Frank A. Hamilton, one of the consulting surgeons, the severe strictures made by another eminent professional man upon the treatment of the President's case, we will remark that the criticisms are those of Dr. William A. Hammond, of New York, formerly Surgeon General of the U. S. Army, and who was superseded in that office by Dr. Barnes, under circumstances that caused very intense feeling.

NEW BOOK RECEIVED

We have received from the publishers, Messrs. Roberts Brothers, of Boston, the following new book which is for sale by D. Bugbee & Co.

OSCAR WILDE'S POEMS, cloth bound, 230 pages, price, $1.25.

In speaking of this writer the Providence Journal says "The poems of Mr Oscar Wilde are about to be published in England and simultaneously in this country by Messrs Roberts Bros. of Boston. The advance sheets show that while they are bizarre and affected in style, and frequently damaged by an evident straining after effect, they manifest a decided and original genius. The most interesting point, however, which they will indicate, will be that the high priest of the æsthetes is by no means the zany of the caricatures of Punch, but that the skill and boldness by which he has obtained a position in English society indicate the possession of ability rather than the reverse. The comparison with the career of Benjamin Disraeli, whose eccentricities of attire and manner in his early days were quite as marked and extravagant as those of Wilde, will suggest itself. It is not likely that Wilde is another Disraeli, or that the tendency of his ambition is in the same direction; but that there may be the possession of decided talent, and even genius with a calculated eccentricity, is proved by many examples, and in the same line by Bulwer, Congreve, and more than one of the early Elizabethan poets, who united dandyism and a desire for social prominence, with real industry and literary faculty. There would be nothing surprising in the fact that Mr. Wilde should prove himself to be a person of some substance, in spite of his dining upon a lily."

Interview with Physicians

NEW YORK July 26 In an interview with the Washington Surgeon General [illegible] of the Navy, said one piece of a [illegible] on Sunday and two pieces on [illegible]

In an interview last night Dr Wm A Hammond (ex Surgeon General) said "It is a great pity the President has not had the best treatment available in the country [illegible] is probably a very fine surgeon, but as to Barnes I don't think he has seen a gunshot wound since the Mexican war, and as to Woodward he probably has never seen one in his life Wales was the best man they had, and he was dismissed by [illegible]"

In what respect has the treatment been wrong

"The surgeons have never made search for the bullet which was the very first thing they ought to have done, and they have never made the slightest endeavor to extract the bullet They have evidently been afraid to treat the President as they would an ordinary man, and that is all wrong The bullet should have been cut out and that would probably have done the President no harm"

Dr Agnew's Encouraging Views—No reason for Extracting the Bullet at present.

Dr Agnew stated before leaving Philadelphia for Washington, yesterday "The incision of the abscess was ordered by the unanimous voice of all the physicians in attendance and has brought about the most satisfactory results We shall now I see every reason to hope be able to control the drainage of the wound and to ward off all danger of blood poisoning I have no idea that this or any similar surgical operation will have to be repeated I see that I am quoted in this evening's papers as having become a convert to the heroic treatment in President Garfield's case This is an error, I see no present or past excuse for the extraction of the bullet I should be very averse to having it undertaken now When convalescence is well progressed it will be time to discuss that phase of the case There is no danger of paralysis of the lower limbs If the President recovers, and the odds are absolutely in his favor he will be as hale and hearty as ever There is no reason, judging from experience, to believe that this wound will make him an invalid"

[11 10 A M]

UNOFFICIAL

The President is resting comfortably and the surgeons express themselves satisfied with his present condition The rumor has been circulated that the President had another chill this morning Those who are thoroughly acquainted with the facts however deny the story and say that the patient had no chills subsequent to those which occurred previous to the incision Dr Agnew has been here all the morning One of the consulting surgeons will be in attendance daily for the present. Hamilton is expected to return to-night at which time unless some unforeseen emergency arises Dr Agnew will probably again return to Philadelphia.

[12 NOON]

UNOFFICIAL

Col Rockwell's Views

Col Rockwell who just came from the President's chamber says the patient is resting very comfortably and considers he is doing as well as could reasonably be expected under the circumstances In response to the question whether there had been or would be any further operations performed on the President, he said "No There has been but the one operation, and judging from present indications we do not anticipate that any more will be necessitated Continuing, the Colonel said that at the morning dressing of the wound the surgeons took several small pieces of bone from the wound, which were supposed to be from the fractured rib

Blaine to Lowell

WASHINGTON, July 26 Secretary Blaine sent the following to-day to Lowell, Minister at London The President's symptoms at noon to-day are favorable Several small pieces of shattered rib came from the wound this morning while dressing it

(Signed) BLAINE, Secretary.

Dr Hamilton Interviewed

NEW YORK, July 26 In an interview this morning with an Evening Post representative, Dr Frank Hamilton, just from Washington, said "This new complication does not materially affect the President's chances of recovery. Of course it produces an impression upon the system, but other similar obstructions and complications may ensue and still not cause serious alarm"

Has anything further been discovered as to the course of the ball and its present position?

"Yes, I think there has. The presumption seems to be from certain indications that the ball lies in the right iliac fossa I did not think the ball entered the peritoneum or liver, although the evidence at first presented was very conclusive that it had entered the liver, and his physicians are very accurate, experienced and observing men." [The right iliac fossa mentioned by Dr Hamilton is the cavity between the front of the hip bone and the ribs and contains the small intestines]

"When I left President Garfield last night everything was getting along nicely He did not look at all like a pyemic patient, and was able to use his limbs freely and shake hands with a hardy grip. The fear of paralysis was groundless."

Dr Hamilton will return to Washington to-morrow night to relieve Dr. Agnew, who arrived at the White House soon after Dr Hamilton left last night.

[2 20 P. M.]

UNOFFICIAL.

The reports which have been telegraphed hence to-day that a serious operation was performed this forenoon, for the purpose of removing a part of the President's fractured rib, are without foundation. The wound has not been touched since the morning dressing, and the only operation performed then was the pulling out by Dr. Bliss with his finger, of two or three small spiculæ of splintered bone, which clogged the passage and impeded the outflow of pus. The surgeons do not admit that there is anything critical or dangerous in the President's condition this P. M.; on the contrary they say he has had a fairly comfortable day, that the discharge from the wound this morning, although not large, was not so scanty as to create a new complication; that the patient at this hour (2.20 P M) is free from fever and resting quietly, and that his general condition is at least as good as yesterday

[7 P M]

OFFICIAL

The President has done well during the day. At the dressing of the wound after the morning bulletin was issued, a displaced spiculum of a broken rib, about half an inch long, was removed The track of the wound at this point was dilated and a larger drainage tube was inserted for the purpose of facilitating the discharge of pus Since that time he has had several quiet naps He has taken more nourishment than any of the last five days, without gastric irritation, and when the wound was dressed this evening the discharge of healthy pus was satisfactorily abundant At noon his pulse was 108, temperature 98 4, respiration 19 At 7 P M, pulse 104 temperature 100 7, respiration 22

J J WOODWARD
ROBERT REYBURN

NEW YORK, July 26 Dr. Hamilton stated to day that Mrs Garfield most earnestly requested him not to leave the President but the demands of his patients here required his attendance upon them and she was made easier by the assurance that Dr Agnew would alternate daily with Dr Hamilton in personal attendance upon her husband

The consulting surgeons have decided to have new instruments made for the better cleansing of the wound of the President which instruments will be ready for Dr Hamilton to take on with him to-morrow evening Other instruments have been ordered the nature of which is not deemed advisable yet to state, but which are said to be for the determination of the exact position of the bullet

A Healthy Discharge

A Washington despatch says In examining the wound this morning three small fragments of bone were found in the discharge They were fragments of the 11th rib, which was shattered by the bullet Each piece of bone was small and all together what came away would not be as large as a silver 5 cent piece The discharge of pus was free, healthy and natural The discharge of bone was considered a good indication that the channel was clear of all obstructions Most of the discharge was from the aperture made by Dr Agnew on Sunday morning, and there was very little oozing from the mouth of the wound In dressing the wound Dr Agnew endeavored to straighten the ends of the shattered rib so as to remove the source of irritation He succeeded very well and the patient bore the dressing with remarkable good grace

Dr Agnew again Interviewed

NEW YORK, July 26 A Washington special says Dr Agnew was asked how many splinters of the rib were taken from the wound to-day

"A dozen or fifteen" was the reply

You felt them with your fingers?

"Yes and pushed the shattered rib back in its place

Do you consider the President's condition favorable

"Yes, decidedly favorable He has slept nicely since the operation and is doing well"

The mid-day examination was concluded at 11 A M The physicians informed private Secretary Brown this afternoon that the President was doing well They declined to give any further particulars and Dr Agnew said it seemed of little use to give anything to the press for what was sent away did not reach its destination in safety Reports have been received here to-day that bulletins have been posted in New York city to the effect that pieces an inch long have been sawed from the rib that the bullet had been extracted and a third that the President was dying whereas the fact was a number of shattered pieces of rib had been extracted from the wound

Unfounded Rumors Alleged to Have Been Maliciously Circulated

WASHINGTON July 27 There was considerable anxiety manifested throughout the Executive Departments to day regarding the President's condition, and the morning bulletin was not at all gratifying A prominent Treasury official, in conversation on the subject expressed the opinion that it would be far more satisfactory to the general public if the attending surgeons would be more explicit, and explain the patient's condition more in detail in the official bulletins The arrangement which has been made for providing for the constant attendance of one of the consulting surgeons is received with great satisfaction Although there is an unmistakable evidence of the prevalence of a more uneasy feeling throughout the city than has been manifested since the first few days after the shooting occurred it is exhibited in a more quiet manner and only observed through conversation

For about an hour during the early afternoon a rumor was circulated on the streets that Dr. Agnew had decided upon and was performing a very critical operation upon the President In a short time the story was greatly exaggerated, some saying that the bullet had been found and taken out, leaving the patient extremely weak, and it was not thought he would rally It is believed from what has transpired the story was deliberately started for the purpose of affecting the stock market, inasmuch as it was telegraphed from the city by persons who had every facility for obtaining the facts in the case

The excitement occasioned by the rumor subsided as suddenly as it started, being promptly denied by those near the President For instance Col Rockwell, who is in the Presidents Chamber almost constantly, in answer to an inquiry on the subject, said there was no truth in the report, and another operation had not been spoken of A gentleman who visited the Mansion this morning and who is an intimate friend of the family, saw Mrs Garfield who told him her husband's condition was quite encouraging, that he was certainly better than he was yesterday and he was resting comfortably

About the time the exciting rumor was circulating, there were advices from New York received by a number of Government officials, and others, that the excitement in that city was intense and requesting the latest news Treasurer Gilfillan received a telegram from assistant U S Treasurer Hillhouse, stating that there was great excitement on the streets and all sorts of rumors afloat concerning the President's condition, some of which indicate he would live but a short time The Treasurer has just returned to his office from the White House when he received the telegram, and at once replied stating the President's condition to-day was more favorable and generally speaking he was better. Information obtained from the surgeons who, by the way, have become noticeably reticent, does not appear to warrant any immediate anxiety regarding the patient, inasmuch as they all, including Dr. Agnew, agree that his condition is as favorable as could reasonably be expected

A Very Encouraging Report from Secretary Blaine

WASHINGTON, July 26 Secretary Blaine sent the following at 11 P. M to Lowell, at London At 11 o'clock P. M the President's physicians report his temperature and respiration normal, pulse 96 This is the best report at the same hour for five nights. The entire day has been very encouraging and the feeling of confidence is rapidly returning.

(Signed) BLAINE, Secretary

[11 30 P. M.]

The Patient's Condition Thought to be More Favorable than at any Time Since Saturday.

There has been more excitement and anxiety throughout the city, with regard to the condition of the President. to-day than at any time since last Saturday morning. The removal of a few small splinters of bone from the wound, at the morning dressing, was exaggerated into a serious, painful and weakening operation. The reticence of the attending surgeons with regard to the detail of the patients case was taken as tacit admission that something was wrong.

A personal note, which one of the surgeons happened to send to Prof. Bell, was interpreted as an indication that the ball was to be at once located and then cut as a last resort, and a general impression prevailed at the Departments, in the streets and throughout the city, that the President's condition was in the highest degree critical and alarming In reality the President has been more comfortable to-day than at any time since the formation of the pus cavity, and has nearly regained the ground which he lost on Saturday last.

The taking out of the splinters of the bone from the wound at the morning dressing was a very simple matter, and instead of weakening the patient it removed one more source of irritation, gave freer egress to the discharge and as a natural consequence improved his general condition "The operation," if operation it can be called, was nothing more than ascertaining, by the insertion of a finger into the wound where the sharp slivers of bone were located, and then sliding a pair of bullet forceps along the finger, as a guide, getting hold of a splinter and withdrawing the finger, forceps and splinter together.

There was nothing in the operation to weaken the patient or cause unusual pain The President shortly afterward fell asleep and had a nap of half an hour from which he awoke refreshed He took nourishment consisting of beef extract, milk and lime water and toast at frequent intervals, and as he was not more restless by fever, he passed a quiet and comfortable day There was a slight febrile rise late in the afternoon and at the evening examination his temperature was 100 7 It soon subsided, however, and at this hour (11.30 P M) his temperature and respiration are normal pulse below 100 and he is sleeping quietly and soundly

His condition is thought by the attending surgeons to be more favorable now than at any time since the chill of Saturday morning

A PUBLIC DUTY.

We are not in the habit of puffing any sort of patent medicines in our columns, for the business of a newspaper is to let people know what is going on in the world, and not to lend aid to what may be an imposition. But we happen to know Dr David Kennedy, of Rondout, N Y, and can personally testify to the excellence of the medicine which the doctor calls "Favorite Remedy." And if a word of ours will persuade anybody to use it, and thus find relief from suffering, no professional etiquette shall hinder us from saying that word For diseases of the blood, kidneys and bowels it has no equal. We would not be without it for five times the dollar that it costs —Daily Times.

A FOOL ONCE MORE.

"For ten years my wife was confined to her bed with such a complication of ailments that no doctor could tell what was the matter or cure her, and I used up a small fortune in humbug stuff Six months ago I saw a U. S. flag with Hop Bitters on it, and I thought I would be a fool once more. I tried it, but my folly proved to be wisdom. Two bottles cured her, she is now as well and strong as any man's wife, and it cost me only two dollars. Such folly pays —H. W., Detroit, Mich —Free Press.

To persons employed in constant mental toil, study or anxiety, Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites is especially adapted, viz to Teachers, Clergymen, Editors, Lawyers and impecunious business men. d&w of all description are relieved at once, and speedily cured by Kidney-Wort. It seems intended by nature for the cure of all disease of the kidney caused by weakness and debility. Its great tonic powers are especially directed to the removal of this class of diseases. We know of persons that have suffered for thirty years that have been permanently cured by taking Kidney-Wort a short time. Try it, either liquid or dry.—Sun.

It is always very refreshing to see a real genuine swell get the "wind taken out of his sails." A "fellah" of this sort was lately telling his cousin what the lady whom he would marry must be. "She must be beautiful, accomplished, amiable, and in short, possess all the virtues and have no failings whatever." When he ceased speaking, his cousin, a lady of course, said with much feeling, "For the sake of argument, admit that you can find such a creature as you describe, but what kind of an appearance do you suppose you would make by her side?" The young man's answer is lost to posterity.

Police Court

Wm Reed of this city was arraigned before His Honor Judge Brett, yesterday, charged with larceny Wm Wright a Province man made complaint that Reed had stolen $24 35 from his (Wright's) person The testimony elicited the following That Wright came to Bangor from the Provinces to get work and had been lately in the employ of Mr Griffin near the Trotting Park On Saturday he was paid off and on Sunday he came into town to look about, and while here he got to drinking Finally finding himself considerably under the influence of liquor, he went to Connor's stable and paid its proprietor the hire of a team to take him home Mr Connor sent a hostler named Wm Reed to drive the team Instead of taking Wright home Reed drove all about the city and making friends with Wright, Reed 'treated' him several times At last Reed drove up Union street and after proceeding some distance he took the now intoxicated Wright by the neck and bending him down he robbed him of his money $24 35 Reed then pushed Wright out of the wagon and the latter laid by the side of the road all night Though he remembered all the circumstances clearly, yet he was powerless to help himself The testimony of the complainant was quite clear and that of the defendant was of such a character as to make him appear self-convicted The Judge ordered Reed to recognize in the sum of $100 for his appearance at the August term of the S J Court

Bar Harbor to Mt Kineo

A family party composed of a Mr Childs, wife and daughter, and Mr Smith and wife who are visiting Bar Harbor, have been desirous of visiting Moosehead Lake They accordingly purchased excursion tickets to Mt Kineo and return, and on Monday left Bar Harbor on the steamer City of Bangor, arriving in this city in the afternoon, delighted with the scenery on the Penobscot They stopped at the Bangor House that night, and took the train in the morning, arriving at the Kineo House at five o'clock yesterday afternoon The party will remain at Kineo to-day. Thursday they will start on their return trip and will leave here Friday morning on the steamer Queen City, arriving at Bar Harbor in the afternoon. This is said to to be one of the most enjoyable excursions that can be made. Those who have made the trip are enthusiastic over the picturesqueness and varied character of the scenery along the route. Leaving the famous fashionable resort behind, the tourist is constantly meeting with glad surprises as he sails up our noble river. From Bangor the route is by rail through the only partially developed valley of the Piscataquis, until the terminus at Blanchard is reached. Here the famous coaches of Morison & Hunting are in readiness to convey parties up the rugged hills, the well-travelled roads being bordered by the grand old trees of the primeval forest, which at Greenville cast their shadows into the waters of Moosehead. Arriving at the latter village the tourist embarks on a steamer and on the afternoon of the same day on which he left our city he finds himself mingling in the cosmopolitan society in the Mt. Kineo House.

HONORED AND BLEST

When a board of eminent physicians and chemists announced the discovery that by combining some well known valuable remedies the most wonderful medicine was produced, which would cure such a wide range of diseases that most all other remedies could be dispensed with, many were skeptical, but proof of its merits by actual trial has dispelled all doubt and today the discoverers of that great medicine Hop Bitters, are honored and blessed by all as benefactors —Democrat

RESCUED FROM DEATH.

William J. Coughlin of Somerville, Mass, says In the fall of 1876 I was taken with BLEEDING OF THE LUNGS followed by a severe cough I lost my appetite and flesh, and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to the Hospital. The doctors said I had a hole in my lung as big as a half dollar At one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope but a friend told me of DR. WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS I got a bottle when to my surprise I commenced to feel better, and to-day I feel better than for three years past.

"I write this hoping every one afflicted with Diseased Lungs will take DR. WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM, and be convinced that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED I can positively say it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness. d1t&w no3 mar12

A GOOD INTRODUCTION.

Favorite Remedy was introduced into Connecticut in 1877, at the solicitation of Rev. J. G Smith, of Hartford, who, after having suffered for years from Chronic Liver Disease and Indigestion, obtained the medicine and was cured. This faithful pastor, thinking of the bodies as well as the souls of his people, at once commenced the advocacy of 'Favorite Remedy' among them, and has been the happy instrument of saving scores of lives Favorite Remedy is now as well and favorably known in Connecticut as along the Hudson One dollar a bottle All druggists have it. A Well Known Lady Escapes the Grave, and Prays for her Deliverer.

SPASMS.

Mrs. S. A. McIlwain, of Fergusonville, Delaware County, N. Y., writes: "Only a few days before I commenced using the 'Favorite Remedy,' in one of my spasms and sinking spells my friends thought I was dead, and gave up the attempt to restore me to consciousness. I am confident that if I had not taken your medicine, 'Favorite Remedy,' during my periods of critical illness, I should never have recovered. * * * That the Lord may bless you and increase your means of doing good is my daily prayer, and may many yet unborn praise the 'Favorite Remedy' and its discoverer."

THE RUBY RIVER.

To keep the blood pure, is the principal end of inventions and discoveries in medicine. To this object probably no one has contributed more signally than Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., in the production of a medicine which has become famous under the title of the "Favorite Remedy." It removes all impurities of the Blood, regulates the disordered Liver and Kidneys, cures Constipation, Dyspepsia, and all diseases and weaknesses peculiar to Females.

When inquiring of your druggist for this new medicine, avoid mistakes by remembering the name, Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," and the price, which is only one dollar a bottle, and the doctor's address is Rondout, New York. Ed. d&w1m july6

AN OPEN LETTER
—FROM—
W. F. SHAW,
—TO—
HIS PATRONS AND THE PUBLIC.

The undersigned, dealer in Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps, Gloves, Umbrellas, etc., etc., at NO. 8 MAIN STREET, would most respectfully announce to his patrons and the public generally, that on and after July 1st, the credit system at his establishment will be abolished and no sales will be made except strictly for cash.

This new departure is not made without having been carefully considered. The undersigned is aware that several of his best customers who are persons of means and whose word is as good as the gold, may probably feel offended, yet a little reflection will convince them that they will be benefited by the change. It is the earnest desire and honest determination of the undersigned to give to his customers the best goods at the lowest possible prices. This can only be accomplished by the adoption of a cash system. By this means the salaries of book keepers and persons to make collections are saved, and the undersigned, with the cash in hand, will be enabled to take advantage of the market and thus secure bargains which will benefit his patrons. His expenses will be greatly reduced, no bad bills will be incurred, he will not then as now be obliged to carry on his books a large amount of indebtedness to the concern, on which, of course, there is no interest, and some of which cannot be collected. It will cost the undersigned a painful effort to refuse credit to his true and tried friends, but the rule once adopted, must be rigidly enforced. He sincerely believes that every reflecting person will approve of his course, and he earnestly hopes that his patrons may see that the adoption of a cash system must be mutually beneficial. He also desires to assure his customers, one and all, that they will ever receive the most courteous treatment, and pledges them that they shall receive the full benefit arising from the change, gaining to them better bargains than would be possible to obtain under any other system of conducting business.

Goods may be returned if not satisfactory, and the money will be cheerfully refunded.

Thanking his patrons for past favors and soliciting a continuance of the same, the undersigned is, very respectfully, the public's obedient servant,

W. F. SHAW.

FELLOWS' SYRUP GRIEF.

Excessive Anxiety or Prolonged Study, will produce infirmity in the Nervous system, in proportion as the strength of that system is expended upon the mind in troubled thought, so are the organs of digestion assimilation and nutrition, rendered inactive and sluggish in proportion as the system becomes impaired. Every individual has some one organ weaker than the rest, and this is always the first to suffer during nervous prostration, for example, affecting news sometimes causes total suspension of the muscular action of the heart, producing sudden hemorrhage and death. No doubt any longer remains of the practicability of restoring the nervous system and through the nerves the muscles of the impaired organs. FELLOWS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES has been proved to possess such power in numerous instances. It will impart strength to overcome trouble and affliction. Persons who are accustomed to look upon the dark side, and who see no pleasure in living, on using this Syrup soon learn to value and enjoy life, and those who study deeply during long hours, will find in the Syrup a promoter of the power of endurance in the brain.

There is no doubt of this fact, that an Impaired Nervous System causes Consumption, Neuralgia, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Heart Disease, and a host of others, FELLOWS' HYPOPHOSPHITES which effectually cures Nervous Debility, should cure these diseases also. "Remove the cause and the complaint will cease."

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 23d, 1880.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, St. John, N. B.

Dear Sir—I have been prescribing your Hypophosphites for several years, both in Canada and the United States, but more particularly at this famous resort for invalids, where thousands annually congregate. For those in whom the Brain and Nervous System has been exhausted from excesses or overwork, I have found no combination of remedies so prompt and efficacious in restoring the vital forces. I hope that every person needing relief will avail themselves of so valuable a preparation.

Respectfully,
ALEX. McMASTER, M. D.
